ARGUMENTS ON ORE
TAX CONTINUED IN
ST. PAUL TODAY

(By United Press.)
St. Paul, April 27.—Minnesota's iron ore is a subject of interstate commerce before it's mined, and therefore cannot be taxed by the state after it is mined.

This argument was advanced by C. A. Severance today in a fight of the iron ore companies on the validity of the tonnage tax law.

He contended that the initiation of contracts for ore output before it is mined puts the ore into interstate commerce.

The legislature did not have the mere matter of mining ore in mind when it passed the law, but sought only how to get more revenue from the ore being carted out of the state, he said.

The state contends that the law invokes a tax on the occupation of mining, and not on the ore itself. The fact that the tax is based on production of ore is a vehicle to measure the tax on, it was argued.

57 Miners Officials

Listed in Treason Trial

(By United Press.)
Charleston, W. Va., April 27.—Fifty-seven officials and 45 locals of the United Mine Workers of America in West Virginia were listed today by the prosecution in the treason trials as contributors to the miners' "war fund" in the march on Logan county.

The list was in answer to the demand of the defense for an amplification of the bill of particulars in the case of William Blizzard, one of the miners' leaders.

The answer admitted that the prosecution had been unable to furnish with exactitude the names of officials of every union claiming to be involved in listing the war fund.

Drawing of a jury started today.

Charleston, W. Va., April 27.—A jury was obtained today for the trial of miners charged with treason in connection with the armed march against non-union Logan county coal fields last year.

The prosecution opened its case this afternoon.

VOLSTEAD CABINETS
ARE NOW ON SALE

(By United Press.)
Washington, April 27.—Besides going down in history as the "father of prohibition," Representative Volstead of Minnesota may also take his place with Sheraton, Chippendale and other creators of distinctive styles in furniture.

The Volstead cabinet, a product of the prohibition era, is now on sale in Washington. It is a handsome piece of furniture, innocent in appearance.

But—the large advertisers in the newspapers say "a stately hall or living room cabinet, beautifully made and with—a secret compartment to hold four 'relics'—and they are cleverly hidden away where one would never think of looking."

Large sales are reported by the stores.

PRESIDENT DELIVERS
NOTABLE ADDRESS AT
GRANT CELEBRATIONSAID GRANT'S SPIRIT OF MAGNAN-IMITY IS WHAT WORLD NEEDS
FOR RECOVERY TODAYRESENTMENTS OF WORLD WAR
MUST NOT BE PERPETUATED
IF PEACE IS TO PREVAIL

(By United Press.)
Point Pleasant, April 27.—The nations of the world in their efforts to recover from the disastrous effects of the world war, need more of the spirit of magnanimity with which Ulysses S. Grant welcomed victory at the close of the Civil War. President Harding said here today at the ceremony commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of "the Hero of the Sixties."

The president spoke from a platform in front of the little village store to a large throng that had come to the hamlet—Grant's birthplace—to pay homage to the great general's memory.

But it seemed that running through his address was an outstanding thought which he was addressing to the nations of Europe devastated by the war, and among which hatred and prejudice still exists.

That thought was that the resentments of war must not be perpetuated if peace is to prevail.

"I wonder sometimes," said the president, "if the magnanimity of the dogged, persistent, unalterable Grant in warfare—the unconditional surrender Grant—would not be a help in the world today."

President Grant's "cherishment of peace," intensified by his intimate knowledge of the horrors of war, Harding said, he felt sometimes that the general would approve America's recent action in joining with other nations to limit armament, and to promote understandings which make war less likely.

Harding declared that though Grant proclaimed a doctrine of moral disarmament at Appomattox, he believed in the nation equipped for "righteous defense." "But no aggression was in his breast," he added.

The speech in full was as follows:
My Countrymen: The military hero of the republic; a commanding figure in the military history of the world; the surpassing exemplar of magnanimity of all times; the most striking example of the possibilities in American life; the confident and relentless commander in war, and the modest and sympathetic petitioner for peace after victory.

All of these may be said, most fittingly of the great American whose hundredth birthday anniversary we are met to commemorate, to whose undying fame we add fresh tribute of memory today.

In that inevitable contemplation, incident to the preparation of an address for this occasion, I have pondered again and again, what distinction or what attribute, or better what attribute and achievement of General U. S. Grant appeals to me most. He looms majestic in the blend of them all—his fame is secure.

One must revere his military genius, even though its development was one of those miracles of grim war itself. No one would have picked him in youth or early boyhood, or in his early career as a regular officer, for the great commander. Responsibility and necessity set ablaze the latest genius. Donelson was a flash of daring, Vicksburg his trophy of courage and unalterable determination. Petersburg the revelation of his genius. But at Appomattox he was Grant the magnanimous, who spoke for reunion as he had fought for union and turned from grim warrior to the ambassador of peace. He could not hate nor humiliate, and in the very glow of surpassing triumph he could not be ungracious or inconsiderate.

He saw union follow disunion, but it was not his to live to see complete concord where discord had flourished. I wish he somehow might know that in the more than a third of a century since his one and only surrender, the indissoluble ties of union have been more firmly revealed and in the shared burdens and triumphs of American progress we have indeed continued at peace at home. Geographical sectionalism is a memory now and the Mason and Dixon line remains only a historical record, where an ambiguity in the federal constitution wiped out and the nation resumed the onward march on its destined way.

Seemingly, it was a long time in which to re-establish a concord so manifestly essential to the nation's greatest achievements, but the understanding of the magnificent Lee was not universal throughout the south, the magnanimity of Grant was not manifest throughout the north. Wounds had to be healed, and partisan politics temporarily profited more in irritation than in healing. But the war with Spain consecrated north and south to a common cause and the sacrifice and nation-wide service in the world war revealed the common American soul. Grant, the great nationalist, who appraised union and nationality above all the frightful cost and suffering, would rejoice to acclaim the republic of today.

I do not mean to say that everywhere in our land we are all in complete accord about fundamentals of government or the basic principles upon which society is founded. But the sectionalism of Grant's and Lee's time has been effaced and the geographical divisions which hindered the formation of the union and later threatened its disruption have given way to the far less menacing divisions which have challenged civilization, and which make the ferment out of which all progress comes, we are today incontestably one people with a common purpose, universal pride, nation-wide confidence and one flag. The contentions which beset us are not ours alone, they are the irritants to civilization throughout the world. They are not to be ignored, but they have never halted the human procession, and will not hinder the progress of this firmly founded republic.

Grant was himself the supreme example of American opportunity. Standing before his humble birthplace, amid the surroundings of his obscure boyhood life, one doubts if three-quarters of a century ago anyone should have sought here for the military chieftain of a century. We have not a few, even today, who think small town vision to be pitifully circumscribed. And yet this little Clermont county furnished in Ulysses S. Grant and Henry C. Corbin two of the 13 lieutenant generals who have been commissioned in all our history.

I wonder sometimes if the magnanimity of Grant, the dogged persistent, unalterable Grant in warfare—the unconditional surrender Grant—would not be helpful in the world today. The great world struggle, which we might reasonably designate the civil war of western civilization and in which we so creditably and helpfully participated, left peoples and nations prostrate, hardly knowing which way to turn for restoration. I cannot help but believe that something of his eagerness to return to peaceful ways, would have speeded the restoration and hastened the return to prosperity and happiness, without which there could be no abiding peace. He perpetuated no resentments of war. Perhaps he felt his own wounds which came of calumny, recalled how he was humiliated through misunderstanding and menaced by jealousy and hampered by politics. But he clung to his vision of union restored and believed the shortest route to peace to be the surest way of lasting triumph.

It is not to be said of Grant that he sought to preserve a political or social order or even a government which had especially favored him. He was too little favored by the existing order. Nor can it be said that he

POPULAR WRITER OF
DETECTIVE STORIES
MYSTIFIES IN DEATH

(By United Press.)
New York, April 27.—Just as he mystified hundreds of thousands during his life with his "Nick Carter" detective stories, so also does Frederick Van Rensselaer Dey today puzzle his friends in his death.

"I can stand the gas no longer, so I am going out." That message was written by the creator of the Nick Carter stories several hours before his lifeless body was found in a hotel here, an automatic pistol by his side.

Relatives are unable to explain the message as they claim Dey's financial and personal affairs were in the happiest of condition, and he was in good health.

During his activities as an author, Dey is estimated to have written 1076 stories about Nick Carter.

Fight to the Finish on War Profiteers Is Proclaimed by Johnson

(By United Press.)
Washington, April 27.—A fight to the finish to let in "the light of day" on the alleged irregularities and frauds in connection with the adjustment of government war contracts and sale of surplus war materials, was started today by Representative Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, republican.

"We are in this thing to stay," Johnson declared, speaking also for Representative Woodruff of Michigan, who with Johnson offered a joint resolution to investigate the departments of war and justice.

Johnson yesterday charged that "hundreds of millions of dollars worth of government bonds had been duplicated, and put into circulation, said today he did not seek for a house probe.

"The department of justice knows of these duplications, and I am satisfied that it will function properly in this matter," Johnson said.

Rathenau followed the example of Lloyd George in summoning all the correspondents at Genoa to hear his statement of the German position.

"The proposed pact will constitute one of the greatest acts ever taken on behalf of humanity," he declared. "It will make the Genoa conference the greatest in the history of the world."

FISHMAN JOHN
RECOVERS BODY
OF DROWNED BOY

(By United Press.)
Litchfield, Minn., April 27.—The uncaney method of John Jeremy, Indian fisherman of bodies, today solved the disappearance last Sunday of John Connole.

In his usual mysterious way, Jeremy, who was called here from Stillwater to search for the boy's body, brought it ashore on Powers lake five miles from here, at 9:30 this morning.

The boy had apparently fallen from a row boat. His faithful dog had remained on shore all during the search, refusing to move from the spot where the boat had washed ashore with a coat worn by the fifteen year old lad. A posse of forty men found the dog late Monday. They searched for the body without avail.

Jeremy took up the search yesterday noon. Residents believe he located the body late yesterday. He went out and picked it up this morning.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cannole.

FARMERS OPTIMISTIC
IN NINTH FEDERAL
DIST. SAYS REPORT

(By United Press.)
Minneapolis, April 27.—Farmers in the northwest are far from "down and out" the Ninth Federal Reserve bank in their report said today.

"There has been no spread of pessimism even though the farmers' volume of debt has not declined and he has not much money to spend," said the report.

"The continued advance of prices in agricultural products, and the turn of the section has renewed optimism, and all sections of the ninth district are looking forward to a good year.

"The condition of winter zone crops is better in this district than the average for the whole United States with especially promising outlook for rye," the report said.

"The pecuniary volume of business increased during the season more than ten per cent as compared with an increase the same season last year of but two per cent. This has been due partly to the better prices, but also to improvement in important lines of industry and production.

"There were increases in copper products, lumber manufacturing, retail lumber sale, flour products, flour shipment, and wholesale trade."

EARTHQUAKE ROCKS
JAPANESE CITIESLIVES LOST IN TOKIO—AMERICAN
EMBASSY DAMAGED—MUCH
PROPERTY DESTROYED

Tokio, April 27.—A heavy earth shock centering in Tokio, occurred at 10.15 a. m. yesterday. Considerable damage was done to buildings in the city and their contents.

The earthquake caused the death of a few persons, none of the victims, however, being Americans or Europeans.

There were many escapes of the narrowest sort from collapsing chimneys and walls.

Yokohama was as severely shaken as Tokio, and the Chinese quarter in Yokohama was virtually destroyed and the waterworks disrupted.

The earthquake was preceded by an eruption yesterday of Mount Asama-Yama, 90 miles northwest of Tokio, which broke out with a loud report, pouring forth volumes of ashes, stones and smoke. No serious damage was caused by the eruption.

The earthquake was one of the most severe experienced here in a long period. Officials stated it lasted 13 minutes, the longest in years.

The American embassy was slightly damaged and many of the exhibits at the peace exhibition were broken.

FARM HOME BURNS;
MOTHER LEAPS FROM
WINDOW WITH CHILD

(By United Press.)
Eau Claire, Wis., April 27.—Mrs. Louis Bolin escaped death here early this morning in a fire at her home near Rice Lake, by leaping from a second story window with her baby in her arms, and although she was badly injured and burned, she and the infant will live.

A seven year old son, however, rescued from the flames by the father who climbed a ladder to his room and dragged him out at the risk of his life, was so badly burned that he cannot live.

Mr. Bolin was doing the morning chores when the fire broke out, and when he reached the house, every avenue of escape from the upstairs was shut off by the flames except by way of the windows.

Some of the members whose terms expire will be left out, it was understood. Governor Preus is en route to St. Paul by auto from Decorah where he was visiting relatives.

PRESIDENT DELIVERS

NOTABLE ADDRESS AT

GRANT CELEBRATION

sought personal or political popularity. These things were apart from his early life.

It is conceivable that men are prejudiced in their attitude toward great problems by their own experiences—more than by their disappointments or their successes. Grant's own experience in life might have led a less deliberate character to welcome an upheaval or disunion or any reversal to the government. But this silent man did not appraise his country by the scale of his own misfortunes.

He had seen much of the republic. In boyhood he drove often to Cincinnati and saw the developing city, much as he saw St. Louis later on, in his early married life. Between these two periods of observation he had graduated from West Point, he had served creditably in the Mexican war, and was stationed as a military officer on the Pacific coast. He saw the westward course of the star of empire. He saw two typical American cities grow under the impulse of immigration and an expanding republic. He saw the foreigner come to breathe deeply in the atmosphere of American freedom and stand erect amid the inspirations of American citizenship. He saw the schooling children, rollicking in the laughter of youth and freedom and equality, garbed in essentially the same raiment no matter whence they came, and walking in the light of the same opportunity. He saw the dreams of the founding fathers more than made true. He cherished the inheritance which came of their heroism and he chose to hand that inheritance onto his children and his children's children.

We know he wished the republic to go on. His 20 years of public and private life, following the war, gave proof enough. Though he proclaimed the doctrine of moral disarmament at Appomattox, he believed in a nation equipped for righteous defense. But no aggression was in his breast. We know his cherishment of peace intensified by his intimate knowledge of the horrors of war. I can well believe he would have approved all that the republic has so recently done in joining other nations in lifting the burdens of armament and promoting understandings which make war less likely. I know he would have approved, because we surrendered no independence, we gave up none of the nationality for which he fought, but we have furthered the assurances of peace, which was the supreme yearning of his great, brave heart.

What of the republic itself? It will not be unseemly to say that American example and American conception of justice and liberty since then have influenced the world little less significantly than Grant's service to the union shaped the course of our own land.

A score of new republics have unfurled their flags and democracy has opened new avenues of liberty and made justice more secure. Civilization meanwhile has made such advances that there has seemed a divinity pointing the way. In our own land the enemies within have been more threatening than those without. Greed and anarchy have menaced. But a calm survey gives every reassurance. A century and a half of gratifying American achievement dates from the sacrifices of the founding fathers and their firm structure was preserved by the patriots whom Grant commanded and will be held secure by the patriotic citizenship of the republic today and the grateful Americans of the morrow.

President Given Real Homecoming Welcome

Cincinnati, Ohio., April 27.—President Harding, back in Ohio for the first time since his inauguration, was given a real "homecoming" welcome by the people of the state here today.

Probably 50,000 people lined up in the streets and gave the president a continuous ovation of cheer as he rode in a flag draped motor car from the station to the Gibson hotel.

The streets were jammed for a block in all directions with more of his "home folks" seeking to force their way into the hotel for a handshake with "Warren."

The president and his party stopped for an hour and a half en route to Point Pleasant where he will speak this afternoon in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of Ulysses S. Grant's birthday.

ORNAMENTAL LAMP POSTS ON 3RD AVE.

Report at Northeast Brainerd Improvement League States 41 Posts are Required

COST WOULD BE $35.00 EACH

Mrs. Otto Lundberg Spoke of Trimming Trees—Cemetery Vicinity to be Beautified

The Northeast Brainerd Improvement League held its regular session at the Lowell building with a fairly good attendance. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and improved.

The committee on ornamental lamp posts for Third avenue gave a verbal report and stated that the estimated cost would be about $35 per post and that 41 posts would be needed to light this street properly. Only one firm had given an estimate on this job up to this time and the matter would be taken up with other concerns. The committee was given further time and are to report at the next meeting how this proposition could be financed.

Mrs. Otto Lundberg, chairman of Streets and Boulevards committee stated in her report that she appeared before the city council and had taken up the matter of trimming the trees along the streets and especially the nuisance of dumping tin cans and rubbish along Pearl street opposite the cemetery. We pride ourselves upon the beauty of the cemetery and at its very gates one faces a sight that is a disgrace to the city of Brainerd. Steps will be taken immediately to stop further dumping at this place and all offenders will be duly prosecuted as there is an ordinance covering this matter and it will be strictly enforced.

Nick Kaufman and A. W. Osborn were appointed as a committee to see what could be done to have this pile of tin cans either removed or covered over and to report to President Cadwell.

President Cadwell spoke on the Duluth and Moorhead highway known as Route No. 2. He stated that he had been informed that this highway was to come through Brainerd by the way of S. E. Oak street. Steps should be taken immediately, said he, to have this route changed to come by the way of Lum park. This would shorten the same nearly two miles, avoid two very dangerous railroad crossings and lessen the congestion on the overcrowded Oak street.

Mr. Cadwell recommended that a committee of one or two be appointed to interview the Highway commission personally in order to have the routing of this highway changed if possible.

Rev. F. M. Ohms moved that a committee of three be elected to take up this matter, in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce, with the Highway Commission and after having secured an appointment with this commission to send one or two delegates to St. Paul to lay the matter before them. Motion carried. The following members were elected to act on this committee: J. E. Cadwell, Fred Ohms and Richard Ilse.

Treasurer Ilse gave the following report:

TRAINED NURSES

Constant Call by Government for Same in Various Branches of Service

The supply of eligibles for the position of trained nurse in the various branches of the services is not equal to the demand. The positions in the Indian Service pay $840 a year plus the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. Laundry of uniforms, furnished quarters, heat, and light are supplied without cost. Meals are furnished at cost.

There is a constant call for eligibles to fill positions in the Veterans' Bureau and in the Public Health Service, and at this time there are more than fifty vacancies in the Indian Service.

Miss Johnstone played two violin solos, Romance by Beethoven and also Wieniawski's Romance. The first mentioned was one of a group heard by Brainerd audiences at the joint recital given at the Congregational church late in March.

In May Miss Johnstone will be heard in Minneapolis in a recital given by her instructor at the MacPhail auditorium.

Prayer Meeting

The prayer meeting at the First Baptist church should be of unusual interest, it being the last mid-week service devotionally before the annual church roll call and supper.

Let us continue the plea for one or more representatives from every family of the church and congregation to be present and wait upon God. This is necessary in view of the strenuous task before us in the denomination at large and also locally. Give this service your honest, earnest and prayerful thought, then come at 7:45 in the spirit of the Master proving loyalty to Him. The pastor will lead.

The Fireside club of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church will meet Friday evening April 28th in the church basement.

NEW STUNTS IN "VODVIL" CLAIMED

Business & Professional Wemens' Club of Brainerd to Stage Brand New Thrillers

"45 SECONDS FROM FRONT ST."

Miss Jennie Norberg and Her Assistants, Bevy of Pretty Girls, Abetted by Lions Orchestra

One of the hardships imposed upon the person living away from the cities is that his education along vaudeville lines is sadly neglected and he goes through life without realizing what wonderful things have never been his. He's missed all the thrills that should have chased themselves up and down his spinal "column."

This lack is now to be supplied. A 1 classy stunts by the Business and Professional Women's club; who are staging extras for the benefit performances to be given Mondays and Tuesdays in May. Every week there will be something new to intrigue you—infinite variety and new performers.

For the first week—which is the next—on Monday and Tuesday they will present a two act bill as follows.

"45 Seconds from Front Street", an act of pretty girls, and music go full of swing and zest that you'll go home humming under your breath and beating time until you take off your shoes. These are the performers: Jennie Norberg, whom you will never recognize and her assistants: Marie Grimes, Hazel Robinson, Biddy McGarry, Irene Turcotte, Marcella Kampman, Lenore Venne, Elsie Brancha, Margaret Johnson, Stella Erickson, Myrtle Smith, Helen Schelberg, Bernice Murphy.

These actresses will be ably aided and abetted by that superb organization the Lions' orchestra, who will roar most musically and never, never frighten the ladies.

The second act is dramatic. The name we aren't going to tell, but you will find that they hit everybody you know except yourself. When you hear them you'll say—"That's so—that's just the way they do it"; "I can just see it" and so on. There's music with that, too. Some of these actresses you've had the pleasure of seeing in class plays. The others are making their debut before the footlights. These are the fair damsels who will keep you smiling: Myrtle Smith, Margaret Stoner, Dagne Stendal, Dorothy Carmichael, and Hazel Robinson.

Other acts for other weeks are already under way. You'll find them most interesting. Those who buy the "season" tickets for sale by the club get all this for the ticket. At the box office window the price is ten cents more, so we hope you realize that you are saving forty cents by buying these long blue tickets that are offered you by the ladies of the club.

Miss Brassere of Ironton is a cadet at the school in district three this week.

There will be a recall election in Long Lake town May 16th.

Eva Caughey was visiting her sister Mrs. R. B. Thompson last Sunday.

The Augsburg band will give a band concert at the Egeland church Friday evening, May 5th. Admission 50 cents. Children 25 cents.

FORD'S MUSCLE SHOALS OFFER

REPRESENTATIVE HUDDLESTON of Alabama, in a recent argument in favor of the acceptance of the Ford offer for the Muscle Shoals water power project, declared that "99 per cent of the people of Alabama favor it."

He would base a Federal action upon the fact that 99 per cent of the people of his state want it. But how does he know that they want it? Under the laws and practices of the state of Alabama about 50 per cent of the voters are disfranchised. Moreover, Alabama is notoriously one of the most illiterate states in the Union, more than a million and three-quarters of her citizens over the age of 10 not being able to read or write, and about 20 per cent of those of voting age not being able to read or write. Probably at least 19 per cent of the people know nothing whatever about the Ford offer and never even heard of it. There is no possible way of ascertaining the wishes of the people of Alabama upon any public question.

Mr. Huddleston is quoted here to serve one purpose and one only—to reveal the character of propaganda that has been conducted in favor of immediate adoption of Ford's offer. A lot of people who know nothing whatever as to the merits of the proposal have been voting for resolutions urging its acceptance. In the meantime, a Republican administration is proceeding in a business-like way to consider the Ford and all other proposals from the standpoint of the public interest.

It might be pertinent to add that the Republican administration is in power by virtue of the votes of constituents who know how to read and write and 100 per cent of whom are allowed to vote for Congressmen.

ALIEN PROPAGANDA ACTIVE

IT IS quite evident that government officials in Washington are much concerned over the renewal of extensive foreign propaganda throughout the United States. They assert that during the past few months the propagandists have increased and have also greatly expanded their activities, becoming lately much bolder in their work, it is claimed.

Those who have been investigating the matter declare, indeed, that the stream of foreign propaganda turned to America has attained a greater volume than it achieved during the World war. This is said to be because this country has become the strongest of all nations and governments and that the political cooperation of the United States with foreign countries is more strongly desired by them than ever before. As European commercial and industrial interests turn to America as the acknowledged center of the world's economics, the propagandists endeavor to influence or create an American opinion favorable to themselves.

One of the common methods of operation is to appeal to the various groups of American citizens of foreign origin. The skillful use of publicity literature, and the publicity man, is another. Agents of the foreign press have great increased in the United States recently. A corresponding multiplication of foreign information-service bureaus is noted. Our official authorities in Washington naturally are curious to know for what purpose foreign governments establish and maintain these extensive propagandizing agencies.

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN'S REPORT

MANY Democratic lawyers who were politically prominent during President Wilson's administration drew enormous fees upon the orders of the alien property custodian when A. Mitchell Palmer and Francis B. Garvan occupied that office. Col. Thos. W. Miller, present custodian, in response to a Senate resolution has submitted to that body a 3,700 page report detailing how Democrats, most of them active in party councils, monopolized the choicest berths at the disposal of the administration in representing litigants in cases coming before the alien property custodian.

Prior to March 4, 1921, when President Harding took office, $2,138,546.93 was paid in attorney's fees. The larger fees went to a selected group. Payments of fees for legal services rendered to corporations taken over by the government were made with the approval of the custodian out of the trust funds of the particular corporation under government control.

There were many in the lists of Democratic lawyers favored by the White House regime who, besides drawing large sums for legal services, also were paid salaries for serving as members of boards of directors of corporations seized and controlled by the alien property custodian. The report of Col. Miller shows that attorneys' fees were so large in some cases of corporations that practically no profits were left to be distributed to the stockholders.

GENERAL WOOD'S ADMINISTRATION

JUSTICE E. FINLEY JOHNSON, of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands, has made a most glowing report to President Harding by Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood during the first four months of his administration as Governor General of the islands. Judge Johnson, who has been a member of the Philippine Supreme Court bench for more than 21 years, recently arrived in the "States." He declares that General Wood is making a remarkable record in carrying out his policies of economy, efficiency, progress, and morality in the administration of the archipelago. As a result, he said General Wood has won the enthusiastic support of virtually the entire population.

CONSERVE THE FORESTS

Gov. PREUS' timely appeal for the conservation of our forests meets with commendation everywhere. Our lawmakers may well take a lesson from France in regard to this. We have been for many years cutting down our timber at a greater rate than new wood is being grown; we are permitting forests to be destroyed by fire and are not replacing them. Unless there is a change of policy soon disaster will surely follow.

The public is beginning to awake to the situation, but the correction measures so far adopted have been far from adequate. There must be better protection against fire, and more planting of trees in bare places, particularly in such as are unfit for agriculture.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE INCREASING

AN INCREASE in the value of America's foreign trade is reported by the Department of Commerce with the announcements that exports last month aggregated $332,000,000, the highest since October, 1921, and that imports totalled $258,000,000, the greatest since December, 1920.

The trade balance of $74,000,000 in favor of the United States shown by the figures is the greatest since November, 1921, when the total was $83,000,000. The trade balance in February was $35,000,000, and in March, 1921, $135,000,000.

AN INTERESTING statement recently made at a rate hearing before the Public Service Commission was that the United States, with but 16 per cent of the population of the world, has 64 per cent of the telephones of the world. In 1899 there were 500,000 telephones in this country, and now there are 14,000,000. That's "going some."

EVERYBODY on the government pension roll will be paid monthly instead of quarterly after July next, the House having agreed to Senate amendments to the bill authorizing the change.

THE Department of Agriculture announces that farm labor conditions are approaching normal, and prices of things farmers buy are steadily decreasing.

Just as a Loan.

Johnny, a sociable little fellow, used to pay long calls to a neighbor. His hostess kept up the time-honored custom of bestowing a cookie on him each time. One day, being occupied, she forgot to do so. Johnny was exceedingly tactful. As he prepared to depart he said, hesitatingly: "Mrs. Davies, could I please borrow a cookie?"

Difference in Crowds.

HOW LESLIE BUSH BEAT WASHINGTON

New York Times Features Brainerd Boy in Extended Column Article
in Two Hit Game

BUSH BROUGHT IN ONE RUN
Made Two Putouts, Two Assists, One
Sacrifice Hit, Bush Pitching
Declared Splendid

The New York Times of April 23 features Leslie Bush, Brainerd boy now in the front rank of the Yankee hurlers. It was Bush's two hit game the New York-Washington series that made New York sit up and take notice.

Here is some of the Bush dope culled from the article:

"Aided by the splendid pitching of Bullet Joe Bush, who used to sport the livery of the Boston Red Sox, the Yankees handed the Senators another trouncing in the third game of the series at the Polo grounds Saturday afternoon, April 22. The score was 4 to 2. It was the fourth consecutive victory for Miller Huggins' crew and as a result of their triumph and the defeat of the Indians at the hands of the Tigers, the American League champions are now in first place by the margin of a full game.

"Bush allowed the Senators only two hits, a double by Harris and a single by Roger Peckinbaugh. The former Red Sox twirler broke loose with a streak of wildness in the third inning and issued two bases on balls with none out. These passes, combined with Harris's two bagger and an error by Schang, gave the Senators their pair of tallies.

"With the exception of his temporary lapse in the third inning Bush displayed fine control and gave only one other base on balls. In addition he received some fine support, particularly from Norman McMillan, Everett Scott and Wallie Pipp.

"Whitey Witt, who until a few days ago was a member of Connie Mack's lowly Athletics, again performed in right field for the Yankees and in the fifth inning he drove a home run into the lower tier of the right field grandstand with Bush on first base. These two runs tied the score and the Yanks then won the game in the seventh on a base on balls, a single by Wallie Schang and a sacrifice fly by Bush.

"With the help of two fine catches by McMillan in center field, Bush held the Senators in complete subjection during the first two innings, but in the third he passed Gharitty and Gleason in succession with none out.

Schang made a wild throw to second which landed in center field and this and subsequent plays resulted in two runs for the Senators. Bush put an abrupt end to the uprising at this point and the next two batters, Milan and Rice, went out on grounders to Aaron Ward.

"After having passed up a great opportunity to score in the fourth, the Yanks jammed two runs across in the fifth and evened the count. Schang, the first batter in this eventful inning, drew a base on balls. Bush then drove one toward third base and Schang raced toward second. Lamotte, the Washington third baseman, was barely able to reach the ball and he deflected it toward Peckinbaugh, who made a wonderful stop and nailed Schang at the keystone by a narrow margin. It was at this point that Witt earned the plaudits of the assembled multitude by driving out his home run and tying the score.

"While Bush was holding the Senators well in check, the Yankees proceeded to win the game in the seventh inning. Scott drew a base on balls with none out and Schang after waiting until the count had reached three and two, poked a long single to right field, sending Scott to third. Bush drove out a long fly to Rice and Scott tallied after the catch.

"During the last five innings Bush held the Senators hitless and the only visiting player to reach first base in that period was Lamotte, who walked in the seventh with one out.

The box score gives an indication of how Bush was doing all-around work that afternoon beside pitching good ball. He was twice at bat, scored one run, got two putouts and two assists and knocked out a sacrifice fly.

There Was a Reason.

Jimmy was visiting his aunt, who was a good cook, and he enjoyed every meal. One day after an unusually good dinner he glanced at his three cousins, who were fat and rosy, and said: "I know now why you got such fat kids."

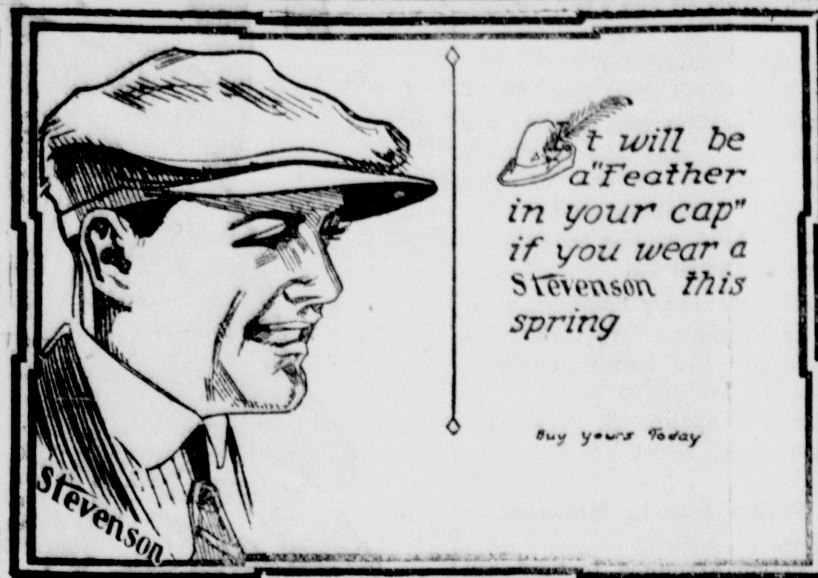

Play the Game to Win.

When you take life in the spirit of the game you remove most of the loads from the way. You can do more and enjoy it by mixing pleasure and zest with the burden. The smiles you give will tempt others to follow and in the company of congenial spirits winning the game is the natural thing. It's your game. Go in to win. All that you put in in effort will come out in triumph.

Orders Is Orders.

Sir: A recent patronizing letter in the daily press about the inefficient methods of farmers reminds me of that efficiency engineer in New York to whom the foreman of his Montana sheep ranch wrote: "Prospects bad. Snowing during lambing." The engineer wired back: "Stop lambing at once."—Wallace's Farmer.

JOSEPH WHITE DIED SUDDENLY

Resident of Brainerd 38 Years Collapsed Wednesday Evening at Mail Box at His Home

CORONER NELSON WAS CALLED

Mr. White Left a Wife and 7 Children. Funeral to be Held Friday Morning

Joseph White, age 77, of Mill street and Washington avenue, died suddenly of heart disease on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. He had finished his supper and had walked from his home to the mail box to get his evening paper, when he suddenly collapsed and fell to the ground. He was not missed until a quarter of an hour afterwards, when Mrs. Evelyn Fay, a daughter, went outside and discovered the lifeless body.

The coroner Dr. C. A. Nelson was called and Dr. I. G. aBeaux and both pronounced in death from heart disease. Mr. White was an old resident of Brainerd, having lived here 38 years. He was born in St. Barnaby Canada. He was married to Miss Minnie Vanasse in 1884. She survives him and seven children. The latter are Edward, Arthur and Eugene of Northeast Brainerd; Mrs. Fred Lemire, Mrs. Dan Lyons, Mrs. Albert Savaugau of Brainerd and Mrs. William Fay of Stillwater.

A brother, Jacob White, lives in Pierz and a brother, David White, in Canada. Mr. White for many years was employed at lumbering in Canada and this country and for the past four years had retired.

The funeral will be held from St. Francis Catholic church at low mass on Friday morning. Rev. Father James Hogan officiating. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved ones.

ELOQUENT EULOGY

Delivered by Rev. Frederick Erington at the Funeral Services of R.
K. Whiteley

'And devout men carried Stephen to his burial, and made great lamentation over him.' Acts VIII: 2.

Our age is super-sensitive. More than at any other time in history, those who live in our day are deeply affected by the troubles and sorrows of life. Dr. J. H. Jowett has suggested that the people of no other age were so much the subjects of the play of deep feelings as are the folks of our day. And this has tended to the achievement of emotional control. Therefore the absence of loud lamentation in this service is not an evidence of our lack of appreciation of the fine qualities of Mr. R. K. Whiteley: it is rather a proof of the control of emotions by those who know that "there is no death."

Those here, in this service, take the splendid suggestion to heart—the suggestion expressed in the words:

'We will be patient, and assuage the feeling
We may not wholly stay;
By silence sanctifying, not concealing.

The grief that must have way."
I am here then to attempt to articulate the feelings of respect, appreciation and sympathy, of the church and the community, which otherwise might remain unexpressed.

The first thing that I would mention is this: R. K. Whiteley was of good blood. His was a splendid lineage. And whatever we, with our democratic leanings, may think about the European attitude to descent, the fact remains that blood counts. As I heard him speak of his father I was impressed by the thought that he could look along the line of his ancestors to those who laid the foundations of our great country—to the men and women who knew chivalry and faith, real heroism and noble daring.

In 1872 Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley came to Brainerd, where Mr. Whiteley was a civil engineer in the employ of the government. He was a pioneer and as such learned many lessons in the hard school of life. Perhaps it was then that his fine integrity was born. For we are assured that on one occasion he had the opportunity of securing a very considerable financial gain by doing a simple thing which his honor forbade and that, despite the fact that he had a considerable family of small children, he refused to do the dishonorable thing. His was an honest soul—straightforward and honorable.

R. K. Whiteley will live in the memory of his fellow citizens for his active life impressed itself on this community in such a way that his record will abide. As long as the bridge which bears the ever-increasing traffic spans the Mississippi his name will remain written on the tablet which, affixed to the bridge, marks him as one of its builders. But his life will be more securely immortal through its high and spiritual influences; for in truth he was a pillar in that bridge of spiritual influences by which men ascend from the things that are worldly to the God who is above.

He was of a splendid physical type. I could not help thinking of the oak when I saw him. Tall, strong, bent a little by the storms, he stood firmly rooted in life until he had reached eighty. Until two years ago he rode his wheel, and fifteen minutes before he died, he walked from one room to another without the aid of his cane. And right up to the time of his passing his voice was strong, clear and natural.

I shall never forget his patriarchal dignity and noble manliness as he bowed at the table on more than one occasion before a meal to offer thanks to his Maker. Silent, retiring and reticent—his unassuming and unobtrusive manner of life spoke the voiceless language of noble eloquence. We remember him, not so much by what he said, as by what he was, for the inherent qualities of his manhood bespoke a soul sensitized to detect the troubles of others and to feel the inflowing of an invisible strength—given from Above.

He was strong, serene, calm. Such an attitude as his may be expressed in the words which he himself might have chosen in seeking expression:

"Give me the man-soul, God-pure,
brave, serene—
To meet these days:

Ready to walk, head high, with firm, sure tread,
This life's strange ways!

I would be soul-poised, great in gentleness,
Gentle in power.

Rich in self giving, pouring life and love
Into each hour.

Help me to sing and fight, not weep and cover.

When blows fall fast:
Patient to bear, strong to endure—
Thy son.

True to the last.
Let me live grandly, seek the things that last.

Press toward love's goal, Win jewel's fame! Nay, better, when earth's past.

Stand a crowned soul!
So be my helper, Father—comfort me.

With staff and rod,
Thou I shall give thee back my life
well lived
For man and God!"

But behind a strong character stands a noble faith. The character is the fruit; the faith is the cause.

His character was a living witness to the faith that made him. Charitable, kindly, sympathetic; yes, and tolerant. I never heard him say anything that in any way reflected on anyone. His was the nature that would praise rather than blame. And in the shadows of his life stood the Christ. His was a reflection of his Master's spirit. And his was an unwavering faith. But two hours before he died he said: "I believe in the Triune God—Father, Son and Holy Spirit." A few weeks before his death he walked down stairs after spending some time in his room in prayer and said—speaking of a number of people who had been gathered in the home but had left—"I'm sorry they have gone. I had a message that I wished to give them." That message was one of confidence and trust in his Lord—the result of a re-discovery that his soul was well anchored.

Robert K. Whiteley was a charter member of this church and a deacon of duration almost co-extensive with its history. Into this church he brought something of himself. In the days of its beginning, during the time of its struggle, through the years of its growth, he watched over it with patience, with faith, with courage, with tenderness. This church is a monument to the devotion of those, of whom he was one, who in pioneer days dreamed of the tomorrows.

And now the senior deacon of our church is gone. We shall miss him.
Those who have been for many years in the church will miss him most.
And, this afternoon, the sympathy of those assembled here and of the larger community not present here, goes out to those who mourn his passing. But, thank God, they sorrow not as those without hope. For they know that their father drew confidence from the words: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

But whatever of Christian fortitude may be ours, we are deeply affected when those whom we have loved are called to their reward. The ties of the years are broken; the place is vacant; the presence is gone.
And so our hearts go out in deep sympathy to that family of six—three sons and three daughters—an unbroken family—almost; for of those who grew up to manhood and womanhood all are living. Yours was a noble fatherhood. And yours is a splendid family. We mourn with you in your bereavement.

During this Summer Brainerd will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary, and one of its few citizens who was here at its birth will not be present at this home-coming festival. But R. K.
Whiteley will take his place in that larger home-coming in the City of God. There he will meet his splendidly intelligent and patiently helpful companion of those many years who has for nine months been looking over the balcony of Heaven awaiting his coming. The passing of Mrs.
Whiteley left an awful emptiness.
How he missed her! But now they are re-united and are taking their part in the home-coming of those who through tribulation "have washed their robes and made them white."

And not in fear did R. K. Whiteley await the end. He knew that it was coming but he was not afraid. His bearing in the presence of death is described in the words of Tennyson's
"Crossing the Bar."

And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea,

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;

For tho' from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar."

Grand Duke Offered Job in Movies

An offer of one million dollars to the Grand Duke Dimitri to appear in motion pictures is given by Teddie Gerard, who has an important part in "The Seventh Day," the first National attraction in which Richard Barthelmess is starred, showing at the New Park last time tonight, as the reason she forsook her triumphant career on the London stage, and appeared before the camera. Miss Gerard scored a triumph in the European capitals that has never been equalled by any other American actress. As a result of her popularity in London, she boasts of the friendship of the Prince of Wales, the King of Spain and the Grand Duke, who would become Czar of Russia if the Romanoff dynasty was ever restored.

Louise Huff in "The Seventh Day"

WANTED TO BE MOVIE ACTOR

Ward Crane, leading man for Irene Castle, who will be seen in "French Heels" at the New Park Friday and Saturday, always wanted to be an actor in motion pictures. Mr. Crane never cared much about the stage, he says, but from earliest boyhood cherished an ambition to act in pictures.

Mr. Crane was born in Albany, N. Y., and attended the public schools in that city. At high school he was a member of the dramatic club and took part in its plays. It was there that he gained the groundwork for his picture career, and when at last he was ready to make his start, it was not hard for him to get a trial.

Sessue Hayakawa

Sessue Hayakawa, noted Japanese-American film star will appear in his latest R-C Pictures vehicle "Where Lights Are Low" at the New Park Sunday only.

The story has to do with the adventures of a young Chinese prince who loves the daughter of an humble gardener and has a multitude of troubles winning her. The thread of action leads from far away China, where the story begins, to America. Having been written by Lloyd Osborne, stepson of Robert Louis Stevenson, the story as to plot is well high perfect.

Chas Jones wins in "Pardon My Nerve"

Sometimes when a fellow essays to defend a girl he takes on quite a job. But after he takes the first step he will not turn back if he is the right sort of chap. Charles Jones, the Wm. Fox star, proves to be the right sort in his latest picture, "Pardon My Nerve!" which opened an engagement yesterday at the Lyceum theatre. Eileen Percy, the Fox star, is his leading woman in this production.

Jones as Racey Dawson, wandering cowboy finds that Molly Dale (Miss Percy) has trouble coming her way from several points of the compass. As a side issue he takes up the woes of Marie (Mac Busch). The two combined keep him on the jump—but he jumps so fast that low-down gamblers who finally finish Molly's father get somewhat cross-eyed with anxiety watching him; and after many interesting situations and several amusing touches he puts them where they will not bother him, or Molly, or Marie any more.

"Pardon My Nerve!" will be at the Lyceum again tonight for the last time. Go see it. You'll like it.

"The Millionaire" Coming to City

Herbert Rawlinson will be seen at the Lyceum theatre on Friday only in "The Millionaire," a Universal special attraction. It was directed by Jack Conway from a story by Hulbert Footner. Rawlinson has heretofore appeared principally in roles supporting the best known stars of the screen and has achieved a reputation for histrionic ability.

Lillian Rich will shine as the central feminine light of the story.

RUDOLPH VALENTINO DELIGHTED

That his role of the Saharan chieftain in "The Sheik" a picturization by George Melford for Paramount of the now famous novel of the same name which is the literary sensation of the current season, is the best of his screen career, is the opinion of Rudolph Valentino who with Agnes Ayres Paramount star, is the featured player in the production. It will be shown at the Lyceum theatre next Monday for three days, matinee and night.

Rudolph Valentino in the George Melford Production, "The Sheik," a Paramount Picture

"I know of no more colorful role than that of the Sheik in this tremendous picture production," he said during the filming of the photoplay in Paramount's California studio. "The

HUNT FOR SECRET OF LIFE

Dream of Every Scientist, Although Always Regarded as a Widely Improbable Thing.

A hunt more exciting than any man-hunt is going on at present in the laboratories of some of the most adventurous of biological chemists—a hunt for the secret of life.

It is now seriously hoped by some of the more advanced scientists that the secret of the causation of life may be discovered—that it may be possible to find the formula which will open the door of the creation of new living things.

Some years ago a scientist described to the British association experiments which he believed tended to prove that new life had been created in a test-tube, but critics proved that there was some flaw in the proceedings—that the spark of life had crept in unobserved and had not been created.

Efforts are now being made to arrive at the point of discovery along the road of chemistry—to discover the exact combination of oxygen, nitrogen, and so forth, that goes to make up the term of life.

One scientist is already said to have made "synthetic eggs"—that is, to have compounded substances which had the taste of eggs, and it is claimed that real hens' eggs in an infertile state—incapable of developing into chickens—will, if treated with lithium chloride, manifest the signs of life and undergo developments for a few days.

These infertile eggs, fertilized with lithium chloride, have not yet produced chickens—after a few days the development stops—but hope is not abandoned that the secret of introducing effective life into an infertile egg by chemical means may be found. The starting of life in frogs' eggs has also been contrived, merely by pricking holes in them, but here also the process stops after a few hours.

The idea of being able to create life is so "colossal" that some scientists and most thinking people smile at it, and regard it as wildly improbable.

Grim Dream.

The Harcourt peerage is a revival of a title which had become extinct. There is a curious bit of family history connected with that Simon Harcourt who was created an earl by George II. His daughter, with him at Nuneham, was much disturbed by a dream one night in which she saw her father lying dead in the kitchen at four o'clock in the afternoon. The following morning the earl went into the park. He was not seen again till a laborer was attracted by the barking of a dog to a well in the grounds. There the body of the dead earl was found, head downward, in the mud. It is supposed he overbalanced while rescuing his little dog, which had fallen into the well. The corpse was taken into the kitchen of the house where it was laid on the dresser, exactly at four o'clock in the afternoon! The story is often told at Nuneham, and seems to be well authenticated.—Montreal Family Herald.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked just an application or two of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.
